ABOUT

Quen Yolanda

Quen Yolanda a.k.a. Yolanda Simmons is an empowerment coach, award-winning author, and educator whose artistry and legacy stretch across stages, classrooms, circles, and soul-scapes.

A former professor, vocalist, and beauty consultant, she is now known for helping women and girls reconnect with their purpose, voice, and power. Through storytelling, image, spoken word, and song, she elevates conversations around personal transformation, legacy, and intentional living.

Her two books, growing calendar series, and forthcoming signature oracle cards reflect her passion for creating tools that guide others on their journey home to themselves.

Whether speaking from a podium or singing a soulful refrain, her message remains clear: Grace is power. Beauty is purpose. And transformation is sacred.

I was drawn away from my stand hearing Yolanda introducing herself and talking about the confident black woman. The set by Yolanda was outstanding in many ways. Her singing with the great backup music and drums, the poems were beautifully expressively presented and blended into a set I could not leave until the end.
